Item 4: Advisory Business

Firm Description and History

Fee-Only Financial Planning (FOFP) is an investment advisory sole proprietorship owned by David T. Martula founded in 1991. FOFP is a state registered advisor with the Massachusetts Securities Division. FOFP provides advisory and financial planning services and contracts one person to perform clerical functions with Mr. Martula in the CCO role. Guidance is provided on a variety of financial planning topics including investment advice, estate-planning recommendations, and retirement planning. FOFP works primarily with individuals and high net worth Clients.

During the initial meeting, FOFP asks a variety of questions about the Client and about his or her financial situation, and attempts to clarify the issues at hand in order to provide an appropriate response. A written questionnaire is often used. The questionnaire responses are summarized usually in a letter format which is provided to the Client. The Client is encouraged to review the letter and to ask additional questions if necessary. FOFP generally offers assistance in the implementation of its recommendations.

FOFP focuses primarily on the financial issues identified by the Client. However, if FOFP discovers additional areas of concern not addressed by the Client, FOFP will also bring those issues up for the Client's consideration. Generally FOFP prepares a written financial plan based on the Client's circumstances at the time of consultation. FOFP may update this plan at a Client's request either in a periodic basis or at a specific point in time selected by the Client.

FOFP also provides continuous management on a discretionary basis for five Client accounts. FOFP provides financial planning activities to over 50 Clients per year.

Types of advisory services offered

Fee-Only Financial Planning gives advice to individuals and couples. When providing advice FOFP ensures that specific information is gathered before making recommendations. Some of the most common questions presented by Clients include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Can I afford to retire?
- When can I retire?
- Should I work longer?
- How much do I need to retire?
- How much life insurance do I need?
- Am I making the right decisions?
- Are these investments appropriate for me?
- Can you give me a second opinion about my portfolio?
- Do I have too much in stocks?
- Do I have too much in bonds?
- Do I have too much in cash?
- What do you think of annuities?

How do I invest in bonds and stocks?

- Where can I get a higher return?
- What will the market do?
- Should I be all in cash? Stocks? Bonds?
- Should I consider trusts?
- Should I be buying other investments?
- What do you think of real estate as an investment?
- Should I refinance my mortgage?
- Should I pay off my mortgage?
- Should I pay off my student loan(s)?
- What is a good college investment?
- How much should I save for college?
- How do I balance retirement and college costs?
- Will I have to pay estate taxes?

FOFP seeks to be educational in its approach. Fee-Only Financial Planning does not give advice in all areas of financial planning. It does not offer legal advice. It does not do tax returns. FOFP does not get involved in establishing budgets.

FOFP does not specialize in any one type of advisory service. However, when speaking of investments, FOFP emphasizes and deals primarily with no-load mutual funds. FOFP does not offer specific advice on which individual stocks or bonds to purchase or sell, other than for the purpose of achieving a portfolio allocation which matches the Client's risk tolerance and goals. The allocation question, when answered, determines the makeup of the portfolio.

FOFP tailors its services to the needs of the Client. Older Client's needs often differ from those of younger Clients. The former may be preparing for retirement, while the latter may be seeking to begin retirement plan contributions, save for a new home, etc. Each Client's circumstances are different and FOFP tailors services to each individual.

Wrap Fee Programs

FOFP does not participate in wrap fee programs.

Client Assets

As of March 2017 Fee-Only Financial Planning had $12,883,647.00 in discretionary assets under management (AUM).

Item 5: Fees and Compensation

For financial planning services, FOFP is compensated on either an hourly basis ($100/hour) or on a flat fee basis. Typically, flat fees range from $100 to $500 depending upon the complexity of the work. Clients are then billed upon the completion of the work.

For money management Clients an annual fee of .10 of one percent is calculated on a monthly basis and charged in arrears. The ending balance of the previous month determines the base upon which fee is charged. Clients are billed directly by the advisor. Fees are not directly deducted from the Clients' accounts. The financial planning fee will be waived for investment management clients.

In both financial planning and money management, FOFP is compensated solely by the Client.

FOFP does not charge additional fees for its services. However, the mutual funds which FOFP recommends do charge expenses which may reduce the return to the Client. All fees paid to FOFP for advisory and financial planning services are separate and distinct from the fees and expenses charged by mutual funds to their shareholders. These fees are described in each fund's prospectus.

FOFP does not charge any brokerage commission. Fees are negotiable.

FOFP does not participate in automatic deduction of fees from Client assets. Instead, Clients are billed for fees incurred based upon the above calculation method and are provided via USPS with an invoice for fees incurred. FOFP does not pre-bill Clients for fees.

Item 6: Performance-Based Fees and Side-by-Side Management

The fees charged by FOFP are not based on capital appreciation of managed securities and we do not use a performance-based fee structure due to the potential conflict of interest.

Item 7: Types of Clients

FOFP deals exclusively with individuals with respect to their personal and family finances including, if applicable, their ownership of a business. There is no minimum account size requirement.

Item 8: Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

FOFP method of analysis includes research in primarily no-load funds. In addition, FOFP ascribes to the theory that it is difficult to beat the market. Thus we primarily recommend index funds, which represent a segment of the total market, or master funds, which include several market-segmented index funds. Furthermore, FOFP believes in Target Retirement funds, which gradually reduce the exposure to stocks for those saving for retirement.

FOFP espouses to the "buy-and-hold" theory of investment. This means that infrequent trading is done in Client accounts. There are some situations which may require changes in holdings, especially if time has progressed to the point when the Client is ready to retire. Other reasons for changes include need for funds for emergencies or other changes in plans.

FOFP primarily recommends no-load mutual funds. Any mutual fund has risks such as fluctuations in market value. FOFP tries to minimize the risks by allocating investments across cash, stocks and bonds. Domestic and international stocks and bonds also aid diversification which tends to reduce risk. However, there is no guarantee of success with this and any theory. Investing in securities involves risk of loss that Clients should be prepared to tolerate.

Item 9: Disciplinary Information

Registered investment advisors are required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material in the evaluation of FOFP or the integrity of the firm's management. FOFP along with David T. Martula have not been disciplined by any governing authority, including any regulatory agency, CFP Board of Standards, or any industry association of which they are licensed and/or are members.

Item 10: Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

FOFP's management persons or associated persons are not registered as a broker-dealer or registered representatives of a broker-dealer.

FOFP's management persons or associated persons are not registered as futures commission merchants, commodity pool operators or commodity trading advisors.

David T. Martula is a Certified Financial Planner® professional. When financial planning is requested by the Client, the billing is done separately and additionally from the way actively managed accounts are billed. This association does not pose a conflict of interest and is in fact a qualification for such activity.

FOFP does not recommend or select other investment advisers to Clients and as a result does not receive compensation for such activity.

Item 11: Code of Ethics, Participation in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

The Advisor strives to observe the highest industry standards of conduct based on its obligation as a fiduciary to its Clients. In an effort to meet this obligation, FOFPP has adopted a written Code of Ethics (the "Code") that is applicable to all employees. Each employee will be provided a copy, and is required to acknowledge, in writing, that they have received, read, understand and will abide by, the Code, and the FOFPP Compliance Manual, upon commencement of employment and upon any material change to the Code.

The Code requires that employees act in the Client's best interests and comply with applicable laws and regulations. Employees are expected to avoid any action that is, or could even appear to be, legally or ethically improper. The principles outlined in the Code apply to all conduct, whether or not the conduct is also covered by more specific standards or procedures set forth in the Code, Compliance Manual, or elsewhere. Employees are required to bring any violations, actual or suspected, of the Code immediately to the attention of FOFPP's Chief Compliance Officer ("CCO"). Failure to comply with the Code may result in disciplinary action or other sanctions including termination of employment.

The Code also places certain restrictions on the personal trading activities of employees and their immediate family members. Employees may generally engage in personal trading only by obtaining prior approval and subject to pre-clearance by the Chief Compliance Officer. However, employees may purchase and sell open-end mutual funds, exchange traded funds ("ETFs"), and any other securities not specifically prohibited by the Code without pre-clearance. Employees are required to disclose their personal securities holdings annually and personal securities transactions quarterly to the Chief Compliance Officer. Employees may also participate in limited offerings such as hedge funds, private equity funds, or other types of private offerings, subject to pre-clearance procedures.

FOFP, its employees or affiliates (collectively "Related Persons"), will generally have an investment in the Funds managed by us. As a result, Related Persons have an interest in an investment that may also be recommended to Clients. Policies have been adopted that minimize the possibility that a Client might be disadvantaged because we hold the same Security as the Client. In addition, front-running is a prohibited practice, also outlined in our policies, and we would not allow trades from FOFP personnel to be placed in advance of Client account trades.

A copy of the Code of Ethics shall be provided to any Client or prospective Client upon request.

Item 12: Brokerage Practices

The only trading activity FOFP engages in on behalf of Clients is when they request changes to their portfolio. This trading activity includes placing orders on behalf of new clients whose portfolio investments are outside the scope of the Investor Profile Questionnaire, re-balancing portfolios, and effecting changes that are necessitated by changing client needs or changing market conditions. Trades are executed and cleared through trading systems made available by Fidelity, Vanguard and E-Trade.

FOFP does not have any soft-dollar arrangements and does not contract with any broker dealer to receive soft-dollar benefits. This means that FOFP does not receive research or gain access to industry analysts or conferences in return for paying higher commissions for trades to a particular broker dealer. FOFP has no business relationships with broker-dealers in connection with Client trades and receives no compensation or “soft dollars” from brokers, custodians or other service providers in connection with Client accounts.

As an investment advisory firm, FOFP has a fiduciary duty to seek best execution for Client transactions. Best execution does not necessarily mean the lowest commission but the best overall qualitative execution in the particular circumstances.

Upon Client request, FOFP may make recommendations to Clients with regard to brokerage and custody firms, and describing any business arrangements that FOFP may have with such firms, but the decision shall remain that of the Client. FOFP does not direct Client transactions to a particular broker-dealer and allows Clients to direct brokerage.

FOFP currently does not aggregate trades as it does not typically recommend individual securities.

Item 13: Review of Accounts

For accounts where FOFP is providing discretionary advisory services account reviews are done once every three months or quarterly. A brief market summary, detailing summary of assets held and review of overall assets allocation, is included. If appropriate, investment plans for the future are developed and outlined as well.

For financial planning activity, all Clients are asked to indicate on the contract they initially sign whether or not they would like an annual or periodic review. FOFP prepares reviews at the Client's request, either at specified intervals or at a particular point in time. Mr. Martula is solely responsible for preparing all account reviews.

Item 14: Client Referrals and Other Compensation

The FOFP has no Client referral or solicitation arrangements with third parties. FOFP does not receive any economic benefits such as sales awards or other gifts from anyone who may provide investment advisory services to Clients. FOFP also does not receive any benefits from anyone who may refer Clients.

Item 15: Custody

FOFP does not take custody of Client funds or securities. Client funds or securities are held at E-Trade, Vanguard or some other qualified custodian. Clients should receive monthly statements from the custodian and should carefully review statements.

Although FOFP does not take custody of Client funds, Mr. Martula does have POA over two accounts where he is able to access the Client's account to initiate trades and exchanges only.

Item 16: Investment Discretion

In some instances advisory Clients will sign a limited trading authorization or limited Power of Attorney (LPOA) which is sent to the custodian for execution. This gives FOFP limited authorization to make trading decisions on the Client's behalf however, it does not allow nor does it provide access for FOFP to withdraw cash from the Client's account. FOFP decisions will be based on what is suitable to the Client's financial situation, as documented in the Client questionnaire, and consistent with the Client's goals, needs, investment objective, risk tolerance and overall financial priorities.

Item 17: Voting Client Securities

FOFP does not vote proxies on behalf of its Clients. Clients receive proxy material directly from the custodian holding the Client's account. It is the Client's responsibility to vote his/her proxy or proxies. FOFP does not provide guidance on how to vote proxies.

Item 18: Financial Information

Balance Sheet

A balance sheet is not required to be provided because the FOFP does not serve as a qualified custodian and does not require prepayment of fees of more than $500 and six months or more in advance.
