Item 4: Advisory Business

Firm Description and History:

Fee-Only Financial Planning (FOFP) (“FOFP” or the “Advisor”) is an investment advisory sole proprietorship owned by David T. Martula founded in 1991. FOFP is a state registered advisor with the Massachusetts Securities Division. FOFP provides advisory and financial planning services and contracts one person to perform clerical functions with Mr. Martula in the CCO role. Guidance is provided on a variety of financial planning topics including investment advice, estate-planning recommendations, and retirement planning. FOFP works primarily with individuals and high net-worth Clients.

During the initial meeting, FOFP asks a variety of questions about the Client and about their financial situation. There is an effort to clarify issues at hand in order to provide an appropriate response. A written questionnaire is often used to document this process. The questionnaire responses are summarized usually in a letter format which is provided to the Client. The Client is encouraged to review the document and to ask additional questions, if necessary. FOFP generally offers assistance in the implementation of its recommendations.

FOFP focuses primarily on the financial issues identified by the Client. However, if FOFP discovers additional areas of concern not identified or addressed by the Client, FOFP will also bring those issues up for the Client’s consideration. Generally, FOFP prepares a written financial plan based on the Client’s circumstances at the time of the consultation. FOFP may update this plan at a Client’s request either on a periodic basis or at a specific point in time selected by the Client.

FOFP does offer continuous management of investment accounts on a discretionary basis along with financial planning services.

Types of Advisory Services:

Fee-Only Financial Planning provides advice to individuals and couples. When providing advice FOFP ensures that specific information is gathered before making any recommendations. Some of the most common questions presented by Clients include but are not limited to the following:

Questions for consideration
Can I afford to retire?	When can I retire?
Should I work longer?	How much do I need to retire?
How much life insurance do I need?	Am I making the right decisions?
Are those investments appropriate for me?	Can you give me a second opinion about my portfolio?
Do I have too much in stocks?	Do I have too much in bonds?
Do I have too much in cash?	What do you think about annuities?
How do I invest in bonds and stocks?	Where can I get a higher return?
What will the market do?	Should I be all in cash? stocks? bonds?
Shall I consider trusts?	Should I be buying other investments?
Should I refinance my mortgage?	What do you think of real estate as an investment?
Should I pay off my mortgage?	Should I pay off my student loan(s)?
What is a good college investment?	How much should I save for college?
How do I balance retirement and college costs?	Will I have to pay estate taxes?

FOFP seeks to be educational in its approach. However, FOFP does not give advice in all areas of financial planning. FOFP does not offer legal advice. FOFP does not provide tax preparation services. FOFP does not establish budgets for Clients.

FOFP does not specialize in any one type of advisory service. However, when speaking of investments, FOFP emphasizes and deals primarily with no-load mutual funds. FOFP does not offer specific advice on which individual stocks or bonds to purchase or sell other than for the purpose of achieving a portfolio allocation which matches the Client's risk tolerance and goals. The allocation question, when answered, determine the makeup of the portfolio.

FOFP tailors its services to the needs of the Client. The needs of Clients closer to retirement age often differ from those of younger Clients. The former may be preparing for life after work and planning retirement related activities while the latter may be seeking to begin retirement plan contributions, save for a new house, invest for future, etc. Each Client's circumstances are different and FOFP tailors services to each individual needs.

Wrap Fee Programs

Wrap fee programs are comprehensive fees charged by an investment advisor to a Client for providing a bundle of services, such as investment advice, investment research, and brokerage services. Fee-Only Financial Planning does not participate in wrap fee programs.

Client Assets

As of December 31, 2018 Fee-Only Financial Planning had $16,020,185 in discretionary assets under management (AUM).

Item 5: Fees and Compensation

Financial Planning

For financial planning services, FOFP is compensated on either an hourly basis ($100/hour) or on a flat fee basis. Typically, flat fees range from $100 to $500 depending upon the complexity of the work. Clients are then billed upon the completion of the work.

Money Management

For money management Clients, an annual fee of .10 of one percent is calculated on either a monthly or quarterly basis and charged in arrears. The ending balance of the previous period determines the base upon which the fee is charged. Clients are billed directly by the Advisor. Fees are not directly deducted from the Clients' accounts. The financial planning fee will be waived for investment management Clients.

In both circumstances, financial planning and money management, FOFP is compensated solely by the Client. All fees are negotiable.

FOFP does not charge additional fees for its services. However, the mutual funds which FOFP recommends do charge expenses which may reduce the return to the Client. All fees paid to FOFP for advisory and financial planning services are separate and distinct from the fees and expenses charged by mutual funds to their shareholders. These fees are described in each fund's prospectus. FOFP does not charge any brokerage commission.

FOFP does not participate in automatic deduction of fees from Client assets. Instead, Clients are billed for fees incurred based upon the above calculation method and are provided via either via email or USPS with an invoice for fees incurred. FOFP bills in arrears for all Clients.

Under no circumstances will FOFP earn fees in excess of $500 more than six months in advance of services rendered.

Account Termination

The agreement to provide money management services may be terminated by providing the other party with a 30-day written notice. Upon termination of the agreement, any unearned, paid fees will be prorated and returned to the client. In general, such fees are pro-rated from the date of termination to the end of the period to which the advance fee applied. FOFP bills in arrears.

Item 6: Performance-Based Fees and Side-by-Side Management

Performance-based fees are fees based on a share of capital gains on or capital appreciation of the assets of a Client. The Advisor does not charge performance-based fees.

Item 7: Types of Clients

FOFP deals exclusively with individuals with respect to their personal and family finances including, if applicable, their ownership of a business.

There is no minimum account size requirement.

Item 8: Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Methods of Analysis and Investment Strategy

FOFP methods of analysis include research in primarily no-load funds. In addition, FOFP ascribes to the theory that it is difficult to beat the market. Thus, we primarily recommend index funds, which represent a segment of the total market, or master funds, which include several market-segmented index funds. Furthermore, FOFP believes in target retirement funds, which gradually reduce the exposure to stocks for those saving for retirement.

Investment Strategy

FOFP espouses the “buy-and-hold” theory of investment. This means that infrequent trading is done in Client accounts. There are some situations which may require changes in holdings, especially if time has progressed to the point when the Client is ready to retire. Other reasons for changes include the need for additional funds for emergencies or other changes in plans.

Investors should be aware that there are risks associated with all types of investments, including investment in securities. Investments are not insured or guaranteed. Investing in securities involves risk of substantial loss that clients should be prepared to bear.

Investment Risks

FOFP primarily recommends no-load mutual funds. Any mutual fund has risks such as fluctuations in market value. FOFP tries to minimize the risks by allocating investments across cash, stocks and bonds. Domestic and international stocks and bonds also aid diversification which tends to reduce risk. However, there is no guarantee of success with this and any theory.

All investment programs have certain inherent risks. Any investment in mutual funds involves the various risks associated with the fund’s underlying investments. This could result in a substantial or a complete loss of the initial investment. Important risks associated with the types of investments made by mutual funds are described below.

Market, Security and Regulatory Risks

Any investment with FOFP involves significant risk, including a complete loss of capital. All investment programs have certain risks that are borne by the investor, some of which are described below.

Market Risks

Competition. Availability of Investments. Certain markets in which the Advisor may select investments (i.e. mutual funds) are extremely competitive for attractive investment opportunities. As a result, there can be no assurance that the Advisor will be able to identify or successfully pursue attractive investment opportunities (i.e. mutual funds) in such environments.

Market Volatility. The profitability of the portfolios will depend in part upon the Advisor correctly assessing the future price movements of stocks, bonds, options on stocks, and other securities and the movements of interest rates. The Advisor cannot guarantee that it will be successful in accurately predicting price and interest rate movements.

The Advisor's Investment Activities. The Advisor's investment activities involve a significant degree of risk. The performance of any investment is subject to numerous factors which are neither within the control of nor predictable by the Advisor. Such factors include a wide range of economic, political, competitive, technological and other conditions (including acts of terrorism and war) that may affect investments in general or specific industries or companies. The securities markets may be volatile, which may adversely affect the ability of the model portfolio to realize profits.

Material Non-Public Information. If principals or employees of the Advisor were to become aware of confidential or material non-public information the Advisor will not be free to act upon any such information. Due to these restrictions, the Advisor may not be able to initiate a transaction that it otherwise might have initiated and may not be able to sell an investment that it otherwise might have sold.

Accuracy of Public Information. The Advisor selects investments, in part, on the basis of information and data filed by issuers with various government regulators or made directly available to the Advisor by the issuers or through sources other than the issuers. Although the Advisor evaluates such information and data and sometimes seeks independent corroboration when it's considered appropriate and reasonably available, the Advisor is not in a position to confirm the completeness, genuineness, or accuracy of such information and data. In some cases, complete and accurate information is not available.

Market or Interest Rate Risk. The price of most fixed income securities moves in the opposite direction of the change in interest rates. For example, as interest rates rise, the price of fixed income securities falls. If the Advisor holds a fixed income security to maturity, the change in its price before maturity may have little impact on the Advisor's performance; however, if the Advisor has to sell the fixed income security before the maturity date, an increase in interest rates could result in a loss to the Advisor.

Inflation Risk. Inflation risk results from the variation in the value of cash flows from a security due to inflation, as measured in terms of purchasing power. For example, if the Advisor purchases a 5-year bond in which it can realize a coupon rate of 5%, but the rate of inflation is 6%, then the purchasing power of the cash flow has declined. For all but inflation-linked bonds, adjustable bonds or floating rate bonds, the Advisor is exposed to inflation risk because the interest rate the issuer promises to make is fixed for the life of the security.

Non-U.S. Investments. Investing in the Financial Instruments of companies (and, from time to time, governments) outside of the United States involves certain considerations not usually associated with investing in Financial Instruments of U.S. companies or the U.S. Government, including political and economic considerations, such as greater risks of expropriation, nationalization, confiscatory taxation, imposition of withholding or other taxes on interest, dividends, capital gains, other income or gross sale or disposition proceeds, limitations on the removal of assets, and general social, political and economic instability; the relatively small size of the securities markets in such countries and the low volume of trading, resulting in potential lack of liquidity and in price volatility; the evolving and unsophisticated laws and regulations applicable to the securities and financial services industries of certain countries; fluctuations in the rate of exchange between currencies and costs associated with currency conversion; and certain government policies that may restrict the Fund's investment opportunities. In addition, accounting and financial reporting standards that prevail outside of the U.S. generally are not as high as U.S. standards and, consequently, less information is typically available concerning companies located outside of the U.S. than for those located in the U.S. As a result, the Advisor may be unable to structure its transactions to achieve the intended results or to mitigate all risks associated with such markets. It may also be difficult to enforce the Advisor's rights in such markets. For example, Financial Instruments traded on non-U.S. exchanges and the non-U.S. persons that trade these instruments are not subject to the jurisdiction of the SEC or the CFTC or the securities and commodities laws and regulations of the U.S. Accordingly, the protections accorded to the Fund under such laws and regulations are unavailable for transactions on foreign exchanges and with foreign counterparties.

Risk of Default or Bankruptcy of Third Parties. The Advisor may cause the model portfolio to hold positions in financial instruments and other assets that involve counterparties. Under certain conditions, the portfolio could suffer losses if a counterparty to a transaction were to default or if the market for certain securities or other financial instruments and/or other assets were to become illiquid.

Regulatory Risks

Strategy Restrictions. Certain institutions may be restricted from directly utilizing investment strategies of the type in which the Advisor may engage. Such institutions, including entities subject to ERISA, should consult their own advisors, counsel, and accountants to determine what restrictions may apply and whether an investment in the Advisor is appropriate.

Trading Limitations. For all securities, instruments and/or assets listed on an exchange, including options listed on a public exchange, the exchange generally has the right to suspend or limit trading under certain circumstances. Such suspensions or limits could render certain strategies difficult to complete or continue and result in a loss. Also, such a suspension could render it impossible for the Advisor to liquidate positions and thereby cause potential losses.

Trading Operations. The Advisor will supervise and monitor trading activity in the portfolio accounts to ensure compliance with client objectives. The Advisor will oversee all trading activity, and review trades on a periodic basis in order to take every reasonable precaution to prevent unauthorized trades.

Security Specific Risks

Liquidity. Liquidity is the ability to readily convert an investment into cash. Securities where there is a ready market that is traded through an exchange are generally more liquid. Securities traded over the counter or that do not have a ready market or are thinly traded are less liquid and may face material discounts in price level in a liquidation situation.

Item 9: Disciplinary Information

Registered investment advisors are required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material in the evaluation of Fee-Only Financial Advisors or the integrity of the firm's management. FOFP along with David T. Martula have not been disciplined by any governing authority, including any regulatory agency, CFP Board of Standards, or any industry association of which they are licensed and/or are members.

Item 10: Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Neither FOFP nor its management persons are registered or have an application pending to register as a broker-dealer or registered representative of a broker-dealer.

Neither FOFP nor its management persons are registered or have an application pending to register as a futures commission merchant, commodity pool operator, commodity trading advisor, or an associated person of the foregoing entities.

David T. Martula is a Certified Financial Planner® professional. When financial planning is requested by the Client, the billing is done separately and additionally from the way actively managed accounts are billed. This association does not pose a conflict of interest and is in fact a qualification for such activity.

FOFP does not recommend or select other investment advisors for clients nor does it have other business relationships with those advisors that create a material conflict of interest.

Item 11: Code of Ethics, Participation in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

The Advisor strives to observe the highest industry standards of conduct based on its obligation as a fiduciary to its clients. FOFP has adopted a written Code of Ethics (the "Code") that is applicable to all employees. Each employee will be provided a copy, and is required to acknowledge, in writing, that they have received, read, understand and will abide by, the Code, and the FOFP Compliance Manual, upon commencement of employment and upon any material change to the Code.

The Code requires that employees act in the Client's best interests and comply with applicable laws and regulations. Employees are expected to avoid any action that is, or could even appear to be, legally or ethically improper. The principles outlined in the Code apply to all conduct, whether or not the conduct is also covered by more specific standards or procedures set forth in the Code, Compliance Manual, or elsewhere. Employees are required to bring any violations, actual or suspected, of the Code immediately to the attention of FOFP's Chief Compliance Officer ("CCO"). Failure to comply with the Code may result in disciplinary action or other sanctions including termination of employment.

The Code also places certain restrictions on the personal trading activities of employees and their immediate family members. Employees may purchase and sell any securities not specifically prohibited by the Code. Employees are required to disclose their personal securities holdings annually and personal securities transactions quarterly to the Chief Compliance Officer. Employees may also participate in limited offerings such as hedge funds, private equity funds, or other types of private offerings.

A copy of the Code of Ethics shall be provided to Client or prospective Client upon request.

Item 12: Brokerage Practices

The only trading activity FOFP engages in on behalf of Clients is when they request changes to their portfolio. This trading activity includes placing orders on behalf of new clients whose portfolio investments are outside the scope of the Investor Profile Questionnaire, re-balancing portfolios, and effecting changes that are necessitated by changing client needs or changing market conditions. Trades are executed and cleared through trading systems made available by Fidelity, Vanguard and E-Trade.

FOFP does not have any soft-dollar arrangements and does not contract with any broker dealer to receive soft-dollar benefits. This means that FOFP does not receive research or gain access to industry analysts or conferences in return for paying higher commissions for trades to a particular broker dealer. FOFP has no business relationships with broker-dealers in connection with Client trades and receives no compensation or "soft dollars" from brokers, custodians or other service providers in connection with Client accounts.

As an investment advisory firm, FOFP has a fiduciary duty to seek best execution for Client transactions. Best execution does not necessarily mean the lowest commission but the best overall qualitative execution in the particular circumstances.

Upon Client request, FOFP may make recommendations to Clients with regard to brokerage and custody firms, and describing any business arrangements that FOFP may have with such firms, but the decision shall remain that of the Client. FOFP does not direct Client transactions to a particular broker-dealer and allows Clients to direct brokerage.

FOFP does not aggregate trades and does not typically recommend individual securities.

Item 13: Review of Accounts

For accounts where FOFP is providing discretionary advisory services account reviews are done once every three months or quarterly. A brief market summary, detailing summary of assets held and review of overall asset allocation, is included. If appropriate, investment plans for the future are developed and outlined as well.

For financial planning activity, all Clients are asked to indicate on the contract they initially sign whether or not they would like an annual or periodic review. FOFP prepares reviews at the Client's request, either at specified intervals or at a particular point in time. David T. Martula is solely responsible for preparing all account reviews.

Item 14: Client Referrals and Other Compensation

FOFP has no client referral or solicitation arrangements with third parties. FOFP does not receive any economic benefits such as sales awards or other gifts from anyone who may provide investment advisory services to Clients. FOFP also does not receive any benefits from anyone who may refer Clients.

Item 15: Custody

FOFP does not have custody of Client funds or securities. Client funds or securities are held at E-Trade, Vanguard, or at another qualified custodian. Clients receive monthly account statements directly from the custodian. Client are encouraged to review all custodian statements carefully.

Item 16: Investment Discretion

In some instances, advisory Clients will sign a limited trading authorization or limited Power of Attorney (LPOA) which is sent to the custodian for execution. This gives FOFP limited authorization to make trading decisions on the Client's behalf; however, it does not allow nor does it provide access for FOFP to withdraw cash from the Client's account. FOFP's decisions will be based on what is suitable to the Client's financial situation, as documented in the Client questionnaire, and consistent with the Client's goals, needs, investment objective, risk tolerance and overall financial priorities.

Item 17: Voting Client Securities

FOFP does not vote proxies on behalf of its Clients. Proxy material is sent directly from the custodian holding the Client's account. It is the Client's responsibility to vote their proxy. FOFP does not provide guidance on how to vote proxies.

Item 18: Financial Information*Balance Sheet*

A balance sheet is not required to be provided because the Advisor does not serve as a qualified custodian and does not require prepayment of fees of more than $500 and six months or more in advance.

Financial Conditions Reasonably Likely to Impair Advisory Firm's Ability to Meet Commitments to Clients

The Advisor does not have any financial impairment that will preclude it from meeting contractual commitments to Clients.
